What financial crisis?

In the middle of the economic recession some companies seem to be immune and are performing better than ever. One of these companies is the online survey company Netigate.

Deloitte together with the Swedish Private Equity & Venture Capital Association yearly rank the 50 most fastest growing technology companies in Sweden. Netigate, who provides tools and solutions for Online research, receives top ranking for the second year in a row. During 2009 Netigate plans to open four new offices in Sweden and Europe.

– We have proved that it is possible to grow and expand even in tough times. Every month we reach new all time high in sales figures, says Victor Molander, CEO Netigate.

During 2009 Netigate has been able to hire 25 new young talents.

– In times like these when Europe is in the middle of an economic recession with very high unemployment among the youth it is extra pleasant to be able to offer employment to many young people, says Victor Molander.

Netigate provides tools and solutions for Online Research. The growth for the last four years has been impressive 1 110 %. Netigate's head office is located in Stockholm, Sweden, and the turnover was 16 Million SEK for 2008.

Sweden Technology Fast 50 is an objective ranking of, and award to, the most fast growing technology companies in Sweden. Sweden Technology Fast 50 is appointed by Deloitte and the Swedish Private Equity & Venture Capital Association.
